

SPREE, THEN SUICIDE. EIGHTY MEN STRIKE.

Pastry Cook Rohr's Body Found in High Bridge Park.

Wife Chided Him When He Went Home Drunk Last Thursday.

Left the Next Morning and Had Not Been Seen Since.

The body of Theodore Rohr, secretary of the Cooks and Pastry-Cooks' Association of this city, was found at 6 o'clock this morning in a clump of woods on One Hundred and Seventy-second street, east of Amsterdam avenue. Clutched in the right hand was a thirty-two calibre revolver, while a bloody bullet-hole in the right temple showed that he had died by his own hand.

Domenico Capello, an Italian laborer, who lives at One Hundred and Eighty-fifth street and Amsterdam avenue, was passing through the grove, which is known as "High Bridge Park," taking a short cut when he tripped over the body reclining against a tree trunk, about 500 feet from High Bridge.

A glance at the ghastly face and the glint of the pistol-barrel told the tale and sent the frightened Capello off on a run for a policeman.

Policeman Douglas and Crowe, of the West One Hundred and Fifty-second street station, met the man on the boulevard and took charge of the body. It is thought by the police that Rohr had been drinking at the Cosmopolitan Picnic Grounds, which immediately adjoin the grove where his body was found. In a coat pocket the police found three photographs of the dead man and an envelope marked "Henry Ellmers, 4 Lexington avenue."

The address furnished means of prompt identification. Mr. Ellmers is proprietor of the Columbia Cafe, 52 Lexington avenue, in the building over the headquarters of the association of which the suicide was an officer.

Ellmers was not surprised, however, when he was informed by the police that the body of his friend had been found. He immediately called a carriage and drove to the scene of the tragedy. He found the body of his friend, who he had known for many years, lying on the ground. He immediately called a carriage and drove to the scene of the tragedy. Imported Scotch Homespun Suits for $125.00 each

If you've seen them you've most probably got one. Home-spun is the only material fit for a Summer Suit.

If the makers miscalculate on the quantity of goods they will be able to dispose of it's not your fault, and you might just as well take advantage of their mistakes as anyone else—especially when you can save $12.50 on a suit.

You have your choice of them, while they last, for $12.50. They're worth $25.

Non-Union Hands Were Employed on the Appraiser's Storehouse.

Forty Bricklayers and Forty Laborers Quit Work at Once.

Contractor Giblin Says He Can Get All the Help He Needs.

Eighty bricklayers and laborers are on strike at the new Appraiser's storehouse, which occupies the whole block bounded by Barrow, Christopher, Greenwich and Washington streets.

The strike was declared yesterday morning by "Walking Delegate" Connaughton, of the Laborers' Union Protective Society, because four non-union laborers had been employed.

The contract for the building was given by the United States Government to Michael Giblin, of 161 Christopher street. The Lee Fireproof Construction Company, of St. Louis, which has an office in this city in the Metropolitan Building, Twenty-third street and Madison avenue, has the sub-contract.

"We have nothing against these sub-contractors," said Delegate Connaughton to an "Evening World" reporter this morning.

"They have acted very fairly towards the men. But Mr. Giblin is continually interfering, and he is really the one who employs all the men. At least, nobody is put to work until Mr. Giblin has first passed on him."

"Yesterday two of the non-union men came out and tried to get up an argument with the strikers. I suppose the object was to get the latter into a quarrel in order to cause their arrest. But the strikers are very quiet, peaceable men, and the scheme would not work."

Connaughton says that he believes Giblin's contract calls for the employment of only union men. Mr. Giblin, as well as the laborers, is a member of the strikers' forty are bricklayers and the other forty are laborers.

Mr. Giblin says he will have no trouble getting men to fill the places of the strikers.

This morning there were eight men at work on the building. Connaughton said that six union men applied for work yesterday and fifteen today. They were paid by Mr. Giblin, and he said there was no strike on the building. However, as soon as these men discovered that there were no more to be employed, they refused to accept the job.
